Dear Sirs;

I have in my possession a few bills of old American money dating back to the years 1771, 1775-6-7.

Could you kindly tell me what preciousness this money has to-day, and what I could get for same.

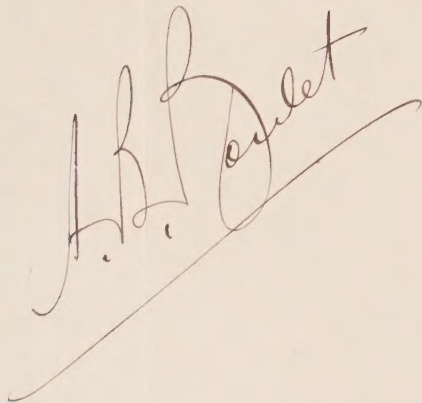

I also have a bill of 20 shillings issued from the Treasury of Boston in New-England feb. 3rd 1690, what about it?

Is there in existence a price list of such old money giving the description and preciousness of same.

If you need further description of the bills I have, I shall be pleased to furnish them.

Awaiting a kindly reply from your society, I beg to remain,

Yours truly,

Dear Rev. Boulet:

Your bills of 1771 to 1777 do not have much premium today. They might average about 25¢ each more or less, according to condition. Your Boston bill of 1690 is rare and is worth at least $5.00 unless in extremely poor condition. If you care to send these bills on to the museum we would be glad to examine them and make you an offer, especially for the 1690 bill. The other pieces we may or may not have. Trusting to hear from you, I remain

Very truly yours,

HW:JT
